I made 10 sides They sell 2x4 grid cages and used 4x8 sheets. This heavy quality corrugated board plastic is used in mobile homes. 03-02-08, 12:41 #2 Great idea! Many people have a hard time finding coroplast, so this would be a great alternative! Thank you for sharing! I wonder how different the coroplast, which is also corrugated board plastic! 03-02-08, 1:25 #3 would you mind posting how much you paid for it? 03-02-08, 1:29 #4 03-02-08, 1:31 #5 It was 29.00 here in Superior, WI and they wanted 33.00 for coroplast. I know that's expensive but I was able to make a 2x4 cage with 10 pages. 03-02-08, 10:22 #6 Thanks for the information! There's definitely something to keep in mind. 03-02-08, 10:58 #7 Thank you, thank you, thank you for writing this post about wavy plastic Menards. I've been thinking about figuring out a way to replace the coroplast. I'm going to Menards tomorrow morning. 03-10-08, 3:14 #8 Unfortunately Im having problems as well as their place coroplast and turned to use linoleum as a temporary fix. There are no menards here, but I'm sure I'll find something similar. Thanks for sharing. SavingsServicesIdeasLowe's Home Improvement WishlistMy Lists Lists
